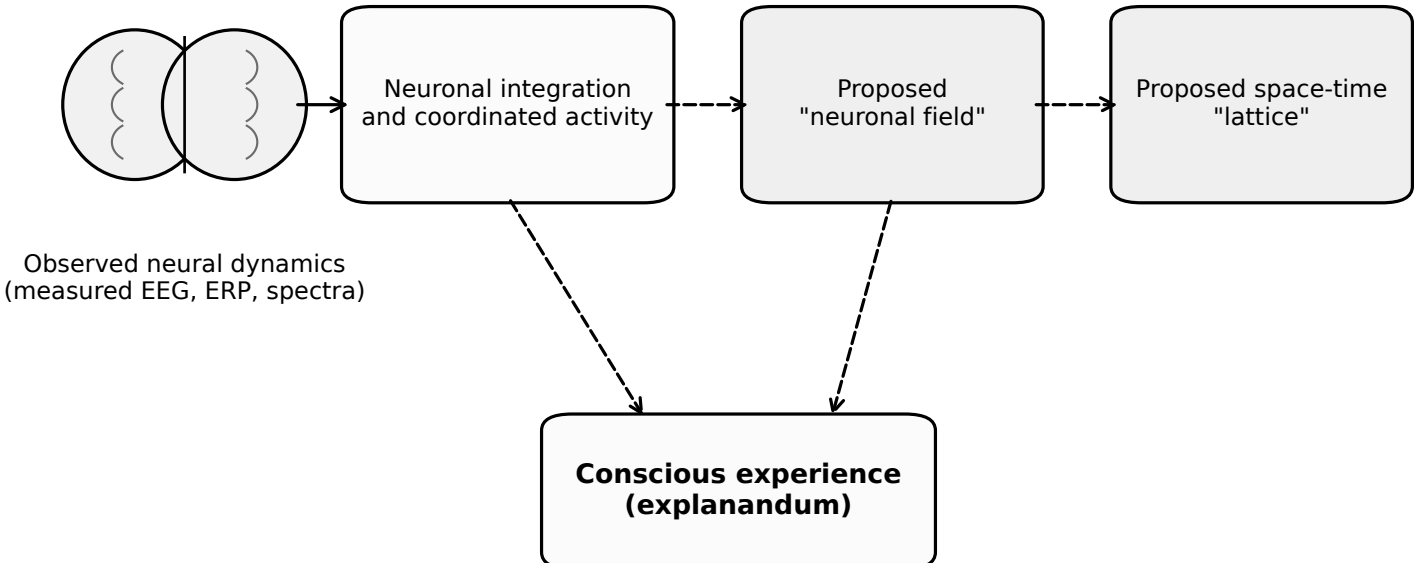
Syntergic Theory separates an empirical signal layer from a stronger interpretive layer.



Solid links: operationally tied to measurement. Dashed links: theoretical extensions not independently established by the EEG record.